The acceleration of globalization has ushered in the era of unprecedented massive transboundary migration in the international society, with money and goods moving worldwide. Contemporary migration and the diaspora exist within a wide variety of backgrounds. These, for instance, include economic reasons, academic purposes, policy of national authority, and dire situations that force people to leave their homelands in a life-or-death crisis. In this symposium, participants discuss the implications of such global migration and its impact on the international society and human beings in general. By shedding light on the serious refugee crisis, especially in Syria and Bosnia, we will further exchange thoughts on the present challenges of humanitarian assistance and explore possible measures for its future development.

グローバル化が急速に進む中、国際社会は、モノ、カネだけでなく、ヒトが大規模に国境をこえて移動する時代を迎えています。こうした広義の人々の移動(migration)には、経済的理由、学問研究目的、国家の政策、紛争などによる生命の危険など様々な背景があります。本シンポジウムではまず、こうした人の越境移動が、国際社会・人類にとって如何なる含意があるかを議論します。その上で、次に、現下の深刻な難民問題に焦点をあて、シリア、ボスニアなど具体的ケースも取り上げつつ、人道支援の問題点などについて現状と事態改善のための方途に関し幅広く意見交換します。

Seat availability is limited so please apply by e-mail or phone if you are interested in attending. But, You can join in the symposium without reservation, if the seats are left. 参加ご希望の方は、下記内容をFAX(送信表不要)、またはメール(件名を「シンポ申込み:氏名」とする)にて事前にお申し込み下さい。定員を超えた場合、お断りさせて頂くことがあります。また、席に余裕がある場合は、当日参加も受け付けます。

Takashi INOBUCHI, President of University of Niigata Prefecture

In his 40-year professional career, Dr. Inobuchi has covered extensively from Political Theories, Comparative Politics, to International Politics. Especially he has exhibited his prominent research ability by making numerous publications and presentations in and out of Japan in the fields of East Asian International Politics, Japanese Politico-Economic Analyses, Asian Comparative Political System, Japanese Foreign Policy, International Relations Theories, and others. Among his many accomplishments, Dr. Inobuchi has made great strides in empirical research of Japanese Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Politics. Between the two major approaches to political analyses: the Staatslehre Tradition and the Empirical Political Theoretic Tradition, he has followed the latter and has exerted strong leadership among the Japanese Political Science circles in the late 20th and the beginning of the 21st Century. Due to his prolific publication of books and articles both in Japanese and English, he is the most frequently cited Japanese scholar in the fields of Political Science and International Relations according to Google and Scopus citation statistics.

Kazuo ZAIKI, Professor, Graduate school of Integrated Arts and Sciences, Hiroshima University

Sociologist who makes a study of socio-economic problems and social problems in Japan. Current subjects are the problems such as government debt and bonds, reform of the social security, decline in birth rate and marriage rate, support of the elderly, work-family-balance. On the other side, he had study abroad experience in Yugoslavia in the period of socialism (at the Faculty of Philosophy of Zagreb University in Croatia from 1984 to 1986). Since then Zaiki has been continuously engaged in the research of Yugoslavia as an area study. In recent years he has been making rounds of the places of return of refugees and IDPs in Croatia and Bosnia-Herzegovina, doing an interview survey of local residents from sociological point of view. The aim of research is to investigate how ethnic minorities remain and survive in their place of origin against severe consequence of 'ethnic cleansing'. Recent works on this problem are: 'Return and reintegration of Serbian refugees in Croatia' (2011), 'Anti-discrimination, Integration and Multi-national coexistence' (Maruzen Bookstores 2012), 'Current living conditions of minority returnees after the ethnic war' (2013), 'Sustainable return of ethnic minorities in terms of generational reproduction' (2014) and others.
